

CLASS EXPERIMENTS IN PLANT PHYSIOLOGY

Hans Meidner

Contents

|                            |          |                                           |         |
|----------------------------|----------|-------------------------------------------|---------|
| Preface                    | page vii | Experimental material and its preparation | page 16 |
| Acknowledgements           | ix       | Water                                     | 16      |
| Part A Introduction | 1        | Plant material                            | 16      |
| About this book            | 3        | Collecting and preparing                  | 16      |
| Aims                       | 4        | Growing plants in soil                    | 19      |
| Method of presentation     | 5        | Growing in liquid media                   | 20      |
| How to use this book       | 6        | Isolating organelles                      | 23      |
|                            |          | Dichroic staining                         | 26      |
| SI units                   | 7        | Experimental reports                      | 29      |
| Basic equipment            | 10       | Tables                                    | 29      |
| How to describe it         | 10       | Graphs                                    | 30      |
| How to use it              | 11       | Text                                      | 31      |
|                            |          | Problem-solving exercises                 | 32      |

|                                                                   |         |                                                                       |         |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------|---------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|---------|
| Part B Experiments                                         | page 33 | 2 Enzymes                                                      | page 44 |
| 1 Properties of matter                                            | 35      | 2.1 Amylase activity and gibberellic acid, (a)                        | 44      |
| Kinetic energy                                                    | 35      | 2.2 Amylase activity and gibberellic acid, (b)                        | 45      |
| 1.1 Brownian movement                                             | 35      | 2.3 Amylase activity and temperature                                  | 46      |
| 1.2 Diffusion, gaseous                                            | 36      | 2.4 Factors affecting catalase activity                               | 48      |
| 1.3 Diffusion in liquid and colloidal states                      | 37      | 2.5 Assay for cellulase                                               | 51      |
| 1.4 Adsorption, liquid on colloid                                 | 37      | 2.6 Substrate concentration and xanthine dehydrogenase activity       | 52      |
| 1.5 Adsorption, mutually between water and ethyl alcohol          | 37      | 2.7 NAD + (DPN + )-linked malic enzyme activity | 53      |
| 1.6 Surface tension                                               | 38      | 2.8 Nitrogenase activity by acetylene reduction                       | 54      |
| Potential hydrogen ion concentration and colloidal properties     | 38      | 2.9 Phosphoenolpyruvate carboxylase activity                          | 55      |
| 1.7 pH dependence of water on dissolved carbon dioxide            | 39      | 2.10 Non-specific acid phosphatase activity                           | 58      |
| 1.8 pH and silver binding by weak acidic groups                   | 39      |                                                                       |         |
| 1.9 Isoelectric range of a protein, experimental determination    | 39      | 3 Membranes                                                    | 59      |
| 1.10 Isoelectric range of a protein, determination by calculation | 40      | 3.1 Dialysis                                                          | 59      |
| 1.11 Electrophoresis                                              | 41      | 3.2 Plasmolysis-deplasmolysis                                         | 60      |
| 1.12 pH changes on root surfaces                                  | 41      | 3.3 Differential permeability                                         | 60      |
| 1.13 Stability of colloidal systems                               | 42      | 3.4 Temperature and membrane permeability                             | 61      |
| 1.14 Cytoplasmic streaming                                        | 42      |                                                                       |         |

|      |                                                                      |         |       |                                                                                                                                    |          |
|------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|---------|-------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------|
| 3.5  | Effect of solutes on the response of membranes to temperature        | page 61 | 8     | Photosynthesis                                                                                                                     | page 102 |
| 3.6  | Hydraulic conductivity of plant cells                                | 62      | 8.1   | Infra-red gas analyser experiments                                                                                                 | 102      |
| 3.7  | Measurement of reflection coefficients                               | 64      | 8.2   | Simplified infra-red gas analyser system for carbon dioxide compensation points                                                    | 103      |
| 4    | Mineral nutrition                                                    | 65      | 8.3   | Light compensation points                                                                                                          | 103      |
| 4.1  | Electropotential measurements and ion uptake                         | 65      | 8.4   | Carbon dioxide compensation points without infra-red gas analyser                                                                  | 104      |
| 4.2  | Ionic relations of Characean cells                                   | 66      | 8.5   | Photosynthetic potential of plant parts                                                                                            | 105      |
| 4.3  | Potassium uptake by excised roots                                    | 67      | 8.6   | Photosynthetic action spectra                                                                                                      | 107      |
| 4.4  | Potassium and water uptake by plants                                 | 67      | 8.7   | Measurement of rates of photosynthesis                                                                                             | 109      |
| 4.5  | Histochemical test for potassium                                     | 68      | 8.8   | Assay of chloroplast activity – Hill reaction                                                                                      | 110      |
| 4.6  | Nitrogen determination                                               | 69      | 8.9   | Chlorophyll content of chloroplasts                                                                                                | 111      |
| 4.7  | Nitrogen fixation                                                    | 70      | 8.10  | Properties of photosynthetic pigments                                                                                              | 111      |
| 4.8  | Protein determination by dye-binding                                 | 71      | 9     | Translocation                                                                                                                      | 114      |
| 4.9  | Phosphorus determination                                             | 71      | 9.1   | Xylem translocation                                                                                                                | 114      |
| 4.10 | Mineral deficiencies                                                 | 72      | 9.2   | Phloem translocation                                                                                                               | 117      |
| 4.11 | Ion uptake and accumulation in light and darkness                    | 74      | 9.3   | Carbohydrate distribution by phloem translocation                                                                                  | 120      |
| 4.12 | Inhibitors of light-promoted ion uptake                              | 76      | 9.4   | Carbohydrate analysis of phloem exudate                                                                                            | 120      |
| 4.13 | Passive permeability coefficient for chloride uptake                 | 77      | 9.5   | Uptake and translocation of radioactively labelled sulphate ions in plants                                                         | 121      |
| 5    | Water relations                                                      | 79      | 10    | Hormones                                                                                                                           | 124      |
| 5.1  | Sap exudation, guttation and root pressure                           | 79      | 10.1  | Extraction and purification of indole-3-acetic acid (IAA), abscisic acid (ABA), gibberellic acid (GA <sub>3</sub> ) and cytokinins | 124      |
| 5.2  | Water inflow, translocation and water vapour loss                    | 80      | 10.2  | Separation of extracts of indole-3-acetic acid (IAA), abscisic acid (ABA), gibberellic acid (GA <sub>3</sub> ) and cytokinins      | 124      |
| 5.3  | Osmotic effects of external media on solution uptake by root systems | 82      | 10.3  | Wheat coleoptile straight growth test                                                                                              | 125      |
| 5.4  | Tissue water potentials                                              | 83      | 10.4  | Oat coleoptile bioassay                                                                                                            | 126      |
| 5.5  | Solute potentials of sap                                             | 84      | 10.5  | Lettuce hypocotyl extension bioassay for gibberellic acid (GA <sub>3</sub> )                                                       | 126      |
| 5.6  | Osmotic adjustment                                                   | 87      | 10.6  | Amaranthus cytokinin bioassay                                                                                                      | 127      |
| 5.7  | Pressure bomb measurements                                           | 88      | 10.7  | Abscission and ethylene                                                                                                            | 128      |
| 5.8  | Pressure–volume curves                                               | 89      | 10.8  | Abscission                                                                                                                         | 129      |
| 6    | Stomata                                                              | 91      | 10.9  | Apical dominance                                                                                                                   | 130      |
| 6.1  | Stomatal conductance in intact leaves                                | 91      | 10.10 | De-repression of dwarf characters by gibberellic acid (GA <sub>3</sub> )                                                           | 130      |
| 6.2  | Short-period stomatal oscillations                                   | 92      | 10.11 | Polar transport of auxin                                                                                                           | 131      |
| 6.3  | Stomatal opening, carbon dioxide concentration and humidity          | 92      | 10.12 | Phytochrome and germination                                                                                                        | 133      |
| 6.4  | Inhibitors and promoters of stomatal opening                         | 93      |       |                                                                                                                                    |          |
| 6.5  | Histochemical test for chloride                                      | 94      |       |                                                                                                                                    |          |
| 7    | Respiration                                                          | 95      |       |                                                                                                                                    |          |
| 7.1  | The 'respiration train'                                              | 95      |       |                                                                                                                                    |          |
| 7.2  | An improved Pettenkofer tube assembly                                | 96      |       |                                                                                                                                    |          |
| 7.3  | Respiration rate and respiratory quotients                           | 100     |       |                                                                                                                                    |          |
| 7.4  | Respiratory electron transport and oxidative phosphorylation         | 101     |       |                                                                                                                                    |          |

|      |                                                        |          |       |                                        |          |
|------|--------------------------------------------------------|----------|-------|----------------------------------------|----------|
| 11   | Growth                                                 | page 135 | 11.7  | Tolerance of anoxia during germination | page 140 |
| 11.1 | Imbibition and germination                             | 135      | 11.8  | Heavy metal ions and plant growth      | 141      |
| 11.2 | Temperature, germination and acid phosphatase activity | 135      | 11.9  | Water stress and leaf extension growth | 141      |
| 11.3 | Phosphate transport from roots to shoots               | 136      | 11.10 | Measurement of thermonasty             | 142      |
| 11.4 | Nitrogen metabolism during germination                 | 137      | 11.11 | Acid efflux patterns                   | 144      |
| 11.5 | Carbohydrate metabolism during germination             | 137      | 11.12 | Fundamentals of growth analysis        | 145      |
| 11.6 | Seed tolerance of anaerobic conditions                 | 140      | 11.13 | The Salford auxanometer for roots      | 147      |

|               |                                     |          |
|---------------|-------------------------------------|----------|
| Part C | Technical directory          | page 151 |
| 1             | Recipes and formulations            | 152      |
| 2             | Addresses of suppliers              | 160      |
| 3             | Names and addresses of contributors | 162      |
|               | Index                               | 165      |